Musicforce.com and Lightsource.com, properties of GET Digital Media, Announce Webcast Of 31st Annual Dove Awards and Launch of Official Awards Show Site

January 25, 2000
EEntertainment Editors/Music Writers
ADVISORY...for Tuesday (Jan. 25)

WHO: Musicforce.com and Lightsource.com, properties of GET Digital Media

WHAT: Live Webcast of 31st Annual Dove Awards Nominees at www.DoveAwardsRadio.com, The Official Dove Awards Show Site

WHEN: Wednesday, January 26, 2000
2:00 p.m. CT

WHERE: www.DoveAwardsRadio.com

Lightsource.com will host the awards show's official webcast site, DoveAwardsRadio.com. The site's content will be produced by Musicforce.com. DoveAwardsRadio.com will webcast the Dove nominee press conference, marking the first time that these announcements have been made online.

The GMA's Dove Awards show recognizes vocalists, musicians, songwriters, producers and record companies for their contributions to the fastest growing music genre in the nation. Founded in 1964, the 5,500-member Gospel Music Association is dedicated to educating the public and the music industry about the mission and role of gospel music in today's world.

Musicforce.com and Lightsource.com, properties of GETdigitalmedia, a Gaylord Entertainment Company (NYSE:GET), have been named the official multimedia sponsors of the Gospel Music Association's 31st Annual Dove Awards. The sponsorship gives Musicforce.com, the Internet's most complete Christian music site, and Lightsource.com, the Christian content provider for Yahoo! Broadcast, exclusive rights to all Dove Awards-related web and radio broadcasts.