8. We note that you assumed the special E&P distribution was approximately $432.5 million, comprised of 20% or $86.5 million in cash, and 80% or $346 million in shares of your common stock. Please clarify and disclose how you calculated the assumed amount of the special E&P distribution and your basis for the 80/20 split between common stock and cash.
9. We note that the special E&P distribution does not consider the effect of any change to the conversion price on your 3.75% Convertible Note that might result from the distribution. (c) Management Agreement, page 97

11. Please revise to disclose your calculation of the adjustment and explain how the adjustment amount was calculated. Your calculation should distinguish the base management fee component from the incentive management fee component.

12. Please revise to disclose your calculation of the adjustment. In your response, please provide us with a table disclosing the amounts related to the items bulleted as being a part of the non-taxable items of a REIT and those items bulleted as being a part of a taxable REIT subsidiary (TRS). These amounts should be reconciled to the actual income before income taxes and discontinued operations for the year ended December 31, 2011 and three months ended March 31, 2012 disclosed on your consolidated statement of operations.
13. We note that interest costs associated with debt owed by the company is considered non-taxable. Please clarify whether any of the debt is associated with the TRS. If debt is you will have to tender for, if practicable, and expand on the prospective impact on your long-term liquidity if you are unable to renew, extend or refinance such obligations.
